Dear Prof. Yan,

I would like to invite you to Columbia University in New York City on discussing joint Ph.D educational program and joint research project on MicroLED display and its application. We would like to schedule a meeting of discussing joint cultivation of graduate students and research collaboration on display technologies with you and your colleagues from Fuzhou University on August 11 and August 12.

Starting August 13, we would like to have you participating our daily research work in our research lab at Columbia campus for over one week, ending on Friday, August 23, as part of our joint research project on MicroLED application.

Please note that all the expense during this period will not be covered by Columbia University.

I look forward to your visit and having fruitful discussion on our joint project.

Yours truly,

Ioannis Kymissis
